

At the start of the First World War, Newfoundland pledged to raise a regiment of 500 men. Many of the initial recruits and the senior officers who founded the Newfoundland Regiment came from the church-based city brigades.

This limited edition set of replica badges are finely crafted by Aitkens Pewter from the original badges of the:
CHURCH LADS' BRIGADE
CATHOLIC CADET CORPS
METHODIST GUARDS
NEWFOUNDLAND HIGHLANDERS

EACH SET IN THIS LIMITED EDITION OF 540 IS NUMBERED AND NAMED FOR A MEMBER OF THE FIRST FIVE-HUNDRED

If you had a family member who was one of the First Five-hundred, or have a special connection with a soldier who was a part of this famous group, you may wish to purchase a particular set. To make a specific request, please include a brief explanation with your order.

We will do our best to accommodate your request.

In 2016, during the Tour of Honour, members of the CLB will be visiting the battlefields of France and Belgium to pay tribute to Newfoundland's soldiers, many of whom were members of these four Brigades.

To Honour Them All

“... when war came, because of the high standard of training achieved by the Church Lads’ Brigade, no other youth organization in Newfoundland made a more valuable contribution to the island’s military effort. Nearly all of the officers and a large number of the other ranks who were old enough volunteered for duty. True to the Brigade’s motto, “Fight the Good Fight,” they served with distinction, the majority of them in the ranks of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment or in the Royal Naval Reserve.”
